Never, never wait for post-mortem praise. Speak the kind words which love prompts, and remember that words of loving kindness are the best possible tonic which can be given even to the happiest of mortals.—Kate Tannatt Woods.

THE MEN ARE HERE

No less than fifty-two men of this city were suggested yesterday, in an interview published in the Star-Bulletin, as available candidates for the board of supervisors.

Exception can be taken to none of these, it is safe to say, either on the ground of ability or of interest in public affairs. Every man of the fifty-two has been successful in his business or profession, and every man has at various times taken an active part in work for community welfare.

The list is not by any means complete. But it is so large that the average citizen may well feel gratified that so much timber for good public service is available. Honolulu's financial security would be safe in the hands of these men.

A great many good men have not been mentioned, and as a whole the movement could be strengthened by the addition, as is suggested, of Hawaiian and Portuguese-American citizens who have proved their worth. Not less than a hundred Republicans of Honolulu, we venture to say, can be named in a few moments without picking one whose record and whose capabilities would not stand the test.

Exceptions will probably be taken on the ground that a ticket made up from these men would not be a "vote-getter".

Well, Honolulu wants result-getters as much as vote-getters, and there are undoubted elements of strength in such a ticket. Even with two or three of the men mentioned on the board, the city's affairs would be well looked after.

The greatest value of the suggestions in yesterday's interview is in the attention drawn to the splendid body of businessmen in Honolulu who are also identified with sincere activity in public affairs,—disinterested, unselfish activity.

It remains for the average citizen to do his part toward getting such men as the fifty-two named out as candidates for the board. Many of them are deep in private business that demands time and energy. Honolulu as a city also demands some of the time and some of the energy of the men of business here.

GOOD SCOUTS!

Honolulu's Boy Scout patrols gave a remarkable exhibition yesterday afternoon in Bishop park, going through evolutions that a large crowd appreciated.

The value of the Boy Scout work in this community is the practical training, the control over mind and body, the stimulus to the senses and the perception, all vitalized by a far higher purpose than mere display or mere masquerade. The Boy Scout movement has flourished remarkably because it had substance as well as show, and because it appealed to honor as well as ability, and character as well as cunning.

No movement for the development of youth deserves more encouragement. It is education without drudgery and with pleasantly unconscious discipline. The men who are working with the Boy Scouts here need more encouragement than they are getting. More scoutmasters are needed. More men who see the purpose behind the picturesque aspect of the Scout patrol.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

Cleanliness, like charity, begins at home. Hence this little story of two men who went down to the Wilhelmina sailing today.

One of the men lives in Honolulu. It is his home. The other left for the mainland after two months' visit here as a casual tourist.

From King street, where these men got off the street-car, to the entrance to Hackfeld wharf, the way was one wallow through dust—and dust that was foul, nauseating, stifling.

These two men were only two out of probably a thousand people who went to the same dock this morning. At least a hundred of this house were visitors in the city.

Every one of the nine hundred residents of Honolulu and every one of the hundred visitors hoked and panted and fought with the dust.

Now this dust, at least most of it, was needless. Half of the two hundred or more yards mentioned is torn up, it is true, and no street sprinkler could run over it. But why not sprinkle the rest of the way? Why ask visitors—those who pay the hotel bills—or residents, those who pay the taxes, to cross this lousy desert in order to get to a steamer on which friends are leaving? Why allow people to leave Honolulu with their last remembrance one of dirt and heat?

This criticism of the dust is perhaps stale. It has been done before. There'll always be some lust on the streets. But a gang of sweepers for half an hour at seven or eight o'clock this morning, to clear away the worst of the dust, and a sprinkler at nine o'clock to wet the roadway, would have saved a thousand or more people a disagreeable experience.

Is it worth doing? Is it worth while for the god who presides over the sprinkling machine to watch steamer schedules and perform this little service for Honolulu? We think it is emphatically worth while.

Gaby Deslys, the Parisian dancer whose chief claim to fame lies in the fact that she was a favorite of the exiled King Manuel, is suing a Paris newspaper for $50,000 because it criticized her as stupid and inartistic. A dancer with a $400,000 necklace, gift of a spendthrift king, might be called inartistic, but hardly stupid.

Hawaii's commercial progress is emphasized by the rapid increase in steamship facilities and the great preparations made for wireless communication with the mainland and the Orient. Quick transportation and easy, economical and reliable methods of communication are partners in business progress.

If dissolving the United States steel trust is to have the same effect as dissolving the Standard Oil and the tobacco trust, let it alone, Mr. Wickersham. Both of the "dissolved" trusts have profited by millions since the government got after them.

The Democrats will not be slow to use the Lorimer case in the fall campaign, but one of the best things that ever happened to the Republican party was the vote last Saturday that ousted the Illinois senator.

It seems to be the fashion to give out campaign secrets of four or eight years ago. Mr. August Belmont might reveal some of the secrets of the New York vote for Champ Clark at Baltimore.

"Solid Kauai" will be somewhat upset in the next legislature with Senator Fairchild gone, but the Garden Island may be relied upon to come down strong and knowing what it wants—and to get it.

There's nothing serious in the controversy as to who won the Hilo yacht race. Capt. Lew Harris is pretty well satisfied with the trans-Pacific victory.

Senator Penrose, William Barnes and a few others are about due to offer a large reward for the man who will answer the question, "What shall we do with our ex-presidents?"

If anybody has been overlooked in the making of political tickets and the federal grand jury venire, will he please speak up?

If the territorial authorities will go ahead and start the armory, the next legislature will provide enough money to finish it.

A wedding has been solemnized in an aeroplane, by no means the first nuptials where the young people were in the clouds.

Bryan points to his eternal candidacy as proof of eligibility for the new American gallery of "immortals".

"Many are called but few are chosen" was not written for the Progressive party, as some may imagine.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

JOHN SMITH—A start has at last been made toward the erection of the Federal building. Stepladders for the window washers have been installed on the Mahukua site.

DR. NORMAN GRANT, of Auckland—Honolulu is the most beautiful spot I have ever seen.

ROBERT CATTON—Some one or some organization should make a business of improving the approach to the Hackfeld wharf. When the people went to the Wilhelmina this morning they were enveloped in dust. It was a regular dust bath and certainly very unpleasant for the visitors in the city. Even though the residents may become accustomed to it, there ought to be something done to eliminate the dust nuisance in that section.

BEN LYONS—There are kickers everywhere and about everything. The night-time joy riders on Maui object because there is too much light, since the electric light system was installed.

MRS. A. M. DA VICO, (Kekaha)—In regard to the diamond ring, all I can say is that it is simply grand. It is certainly a splendid prize and I always wear it with pride. I feel myself repaid one hundred times for the little work I did in taking up subscriptions for the Bulletin.

W. C. ACHI—Notwithstanding the morning paper's mention of me as one of those present, I was not at the meeting at Prince Cupid's residence last night.

B. F. DILLINGHAM—I am glad to see the price of sugar going up again, as now the latter half of the crop will not have to be sold on a depressed market. It hits the planters hard on cane contracts when the price of sugar falls after the price is made on cane deliveries, but I suppose that on a ten-year contract the results will average fairly well. One plantation, however, lost $175,000 on its cane contracts year before last, owing to the price not yielding according to expectations.

PERSONALITIES

MRS. W. A. MACKAY came to Honolulu last week on the Claudine. She underwent a slight operation yesterday. Dr. Straub performed the operation, which was successful. Mrs. Mackay is resting comfortably.

H. B. PENHALLOW came to town this morning on the Kilauea and returned this evening. His hurried trip was purely on business.

C. D. LUFKIN, the Walluku banker, is here for a short business trip.

GEORGE P. COOKE returned to the Molokai Ranch this afternoon on the Mikahala.

MRS. W. H. RICE of Lihue has been confined to her bed for a few days. She is somewhat better, and her family expect her up and about in a few days.

MRS. JULIA SMITH, sister of Lloyd Cocking, is spending the week on Tantalus with Mrs. Wm. T. Schmidt.

MISS LUCY PEABODY, the well-known owner of large tracts of land on Hawaii and on Oahu, is at present in Kona, looking over her properties in that district.

S. N. CASTLE was numbered among the passengers to arrive from the Coast in the S. S. Honolulu this morning.

GEORGE HENSHALL, the newspaper man, was a returning passenger from Hawaii and Maui in the Claudine this morning.

H. A. BALDWIN, Mrs. Baldwin and children are en route to Maui from the Coast as passengers in the Matson Navigation liner Honolulu.

MRS. G. B. CURTIS, wife of Manager Curtis of Jordan & Co., returned this morning from a pleasant sojourn on the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Curtis was a passenger in the Honolulu.

JOHN A. MCANDLESS and Mrs. McCandless are back from an extended tour of the mainland. They were returning passengers in the Matson Navigation steamer Honolulu this morning.

J. D. DOUGHERTY, who has been away on an extended buying trip in the interests of a new jewelry firm in which he holds a high interest, returned in the steamer Honolulu this morning.

CAPT. A. F. PILLSBURY, a well-known marine insurance underwriter, with headquarters at San Francisco, was a passenger in the Honolulu this morning. He will remain in the Islands for some weeks.

MRS. J. B. REILLY, mother of Captain Henry L. Reilly, wharf superintendent for H. Hackfeld & Co., arrived at Honolulu this morning as a passenger in the Honolulu. Mrs. Reilly will pay an extended visit with her son.

W. L. LAWSON, prominently identified with the best sugar industry of the Middle West, is a visitor to Honolulu. Mr. Lawson is accompanied by a bride, and they will make an extended tour of the Islands before returning to the mainland.

V. L. STEVENSON and wife are back from a two months' sojourn at Hilo, where, as editor of the Hilo Tribune, Mr. Stevenson assumed the duties of H. W. Kinney during the latter's tour of the Island of Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson will take apartments at Waikiki Beach.

MRS. M. M. CLONAN, accompanied by her daughters, Misses Dolly and Lettie Clonan, returned in the Claudine this morning from an extended tour of all interesting points on Hawaii and Maui. As guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Stevenson at Hilo, they also visited the Volcano of Kilauea and later viewed scenic attractions as offered on the JAMES DOUGHERTY returned this morning by the Honolulu from a several months' trip to the States. While away he was in Baltimore, New York, Boston, Chicago and other large cities, and says that he had a very pleasant and successful trip.

DR. GEORGE H. TUTTLE this morning took up his duties as government physician in the Koolauloa and Koolapoiki districts, succeeding Dr. C. P. Durney, who goes to Maui as physician for the county farm and sanatorium on that island.

DUKE FUND

Was pleased to note that you have been taking hold of this proposition and I feel that it will be a success under your able management.

We have sent out lists asking for donations from Kaupo, Kihahulu, Hana, Nahiku and Keanae. So now we will watch the young man's fund grow. Jack Atkinson's idea of a "hookup" is not a bad idea but what is the matter of leaving this for the last and when the house and lot proposition is paid for we can come with the hookups for the furnishing of the house. The Hana women will make a quilt and perhaps a mat or two and when the house warming takes place Jack can be delegated to head the procession and carry the stove. We will do the best we can here and if all the districts will help like Hana, a matter of $2000 will be forthcoming inside of a couple of weeks and a good home will make the lad feel happy when he gets back.

Archie Robertson yesterday afternoon brought the following list of subscriptions from the hardware department of T. H. Davies & Co.: Duke Kahanamoku Fund, care Honolulu Star-Bulletin, City:

DUKE WRITES HENDERSON IS GOING TO MAKE TOUR

The first direct word from Duke since he reached Europe on his Olympic trip was received this morning by Lew G. Henderson.

Writing on board the Finland, Duke says:

"Dear old Pal:—
"All is well. Having a very smooth trip. Enjoying the trip very much. Will be at Antwerp Monday morning. Six days off New York. S. S. Olympic passed us yesterday at noon. Some boat. Would like to be on that ship.
"Will probably go to France, Germany and England. Best regards to the Hui Nalu. Aloha Nui to you."

Duke also sends a letter in which he says that after the trials in New York, in which he defeated the right to go to the Olympic games, he met some Hawaiian boys on Broadway and they all managed to get up a pot supper which certainly tasted good to him.

TRIED TO KEEP DUKE OUT

Through this failure of understanding, whether on the part of the Swedish committee or the American managers, the Americans may lose the final of this event. The Hawaiian, Kahanamoku, is the talk of the town today, not only for what he does, but for the easy, nonchalant way in which he does it. He has caught the popular fancy, and the president of the British Life Saving society has offered him a valuable cup if he swims 100 meters in 1 minute during the contests. He established a world's record when he won his trial heat in the 100 meters in 1 minute 2 1/2 seconds.

Last night's swimming fiasco caused the first friction of the meeting. The jury which decides disputes met today at the Riksdag and agreed that the United States had no ground for protest because its representatives had been left out of the semi-finals. The jury concluded that in the interest of sport, the heat should be reswum.

Germany, whose champion, Bretling, won the heat, objected. Australia's meeting representative and other competitors, agreed, and on a vote Germany's objections was overruled.

TWO CANNERIES WERE OMITTED

In the account of the preserved pineapple pack of this year, which appeared in the Star-Bulletin some days ago, two canneries were inadvertently overlooked. One was that of the Pearl City Fruit Co., which will put up 65,000 cases, and the other the Eames cannery, which will have an output of 80,000 cases.

For news and the truth about it, all people buy the Star-Bulletin.

HAW. COM.

IS BOOMING

Hawaiian Commercial features today's stock sheet, having gone to 45 on the board today in three sales of 20, 10 and 10 shares respectively, a gain of half a point since yesterday, in the meantime having shown an advance of a quarter-between sessions for 300 shares in blocks of 50, 145, 5 and 100.

Oahu declined an eighth on the board with sales of 5 and 15 shares at 28.375, succeeding a sale of 50 unchanged at 28.50 in recess. Ewa lost a quarter point in sales of 40, 15 and 10 between sessions; and 5 and 25 on the board, all at 32.25. Pioneer is unchanged at 34.75 for sales of 35, 65, 25 and 25. Onomea fell off half a point in a sale of 50 at 55.50. Hutchinson is unchanged at 21 for 50 shares reported.

McBryde sold up a quarter point at 7.25 for 25 shares, and another quarter is asked. Pineapple holds at 43.50 with a sale of 10 shares, also Mutual Telephone at 24 for 6 shares.

Bonds came in heavily today with sales of $17,000 Hi'o Extension 6s at 94.75 and $1000 Olaa 6s at 97.50, both without change.

J. F. CHILDS, manager of the grocery department of Theo. H. Davies & Co., was a departing passenger on the Wilhelmina this morning. He is going to the States for an extended business trip.

MISS H. BRADFORD, a pretty San Francisco society girl, who is to be a bridesmaid to Miss Theima Parker in her approaching nuptials, is an arrival in the Matson Navigation steamer Honolulu.

FROM DICKENS

THE Pickwick Club had finally dissolved and Mr. Pickwick had made a choice of a home. Everything was so beautiful! The lawn in front, the garden behind, the miniature conservatory, the dining-room, the drawing-room, the bed-rooms, the smoking-room, and, above all, the study, with its pictures and easy-chairs, and odd cabinets and queer tables, and books out of number, with a large, cheerful window, opening upon a pleasant lawn, and commanding a pretty landscape, just dotted here and there with little houses, almost hidden by the trees; and then the curtains, and the carpets, and the chairs, and the sofas! Everything was so beautiful, so compact, so neat, and in such exquisite taste, said everybody, that there really was no deciding what to admire most.

We have just such a home in Manoa Valley all ready for you—or we can build you a home after your own plans in Beautiful Kaimuki.
